

Memorial Trees

Memorial Trees are planted around Harbour View. Our policy is to plant trees in a way that appears natural and in which they are likely to mature. They are planted for the long-term, greater good of the burial ground. As such most graves do not have a tree planted directly upon them – trees simply do not grow like that. Trees are planted in areas that are to become open woodland and are not planted on the higher areas where the views of the Harbour and Purbeck are paramount. A variety of tree types and sizes are available, they can be taken as a memorial for an initial five-year term and for increments thereof. They always remain the property of the Company, who will have the exclusive right to maintain and prune them.

Among the trees available are, Oak, Horse Chestnut, Sweet Chestnut, Copper Beech, Silver Birch, Ash, Rowan, Flowering Cherry along with Apple, Pear and Plum Fruit Trees. We will consider other trees but will always look to protect the nature of the traditional English Woodland we want to create.
